DEFINITE and INDEFINITE ARTICLES: the, a, an

Academic Year: 2020-2021

DEFINITE and INDEFINITE ARTICLES: the, a, an

The words ‘a’, ‘an’ and ‘the’, known as articles, present problems for most speakers of English as an additional language. This is not surprising, since there is no equivalent construction in many languages, and those languages that do have articles do not necessarily use them in the same way as English.

Introduction

It is often difficult to decide whether an English noun needs an article before it, and, if so, which article (a/an/the) to use. The main things to consider when choosing an article are whether or not the noun is countable, and whether it is definite.

Countability means that the noun can be made plural, e.g. book/books. This is something you can check in a learner’s dictionary of English. Whether a noun is definite or indefinite depends on whether you and your reader or listener both know what you are referring to. Much of the information is based on the work of Master (1986) and Swales and Feak (1994).

What is an article?

Basically, The English language uses articles to identify nouns. Articles act much like adjectives. Articles clarify whether a noun is specific or general, singular or plural. An article appears before the noun it accompanies.

There are two types of articles :

- ✓ The definite article is the.
- ✓ The indefinite article is a / an.

1- The indefinite article a or an:

General rules:

Rule01: The article a / an is used when we don't specify the things or people we are talking about:

Examples:

- I met a friend.
- I work in a factory in New York.
- I borrowed a pencil from a passenger sitting next to me.

Rule02: The indefinite article -a- is used before a consonant sound:

Examples:

- a dog.
- a pilot
- a teacher.
- a university

NOTE: Although the word 'university' starts with the vowel 'u', it is not pronounced as such. It is pronounced as a consonant sound /ju:.niv3:.si.ti/

Rule 03: The indefinite article /an/ is used before a vowel sound:

Examples:

- An engineer.
- An elephant.
- An athlete: a person who is proficient in sports and other forms of physical exercise.

2- The definite article /the/:

- It's used when the speaker talks about a specific object that both the person speaking and the listener know.

EXAMPLES:

- The car over there is fast.
- The president of the United States is giving a speech tonight.

- When we speak of something or someone for the first time we use /a/ or /an/, the next time we repeat that object we use the definite article /the/.

EXAMPLES:

- ✚ I live in a house. The house is quite old and has four bedrooms.
- ✚ I ate in a Chinese restaurant. The restaurant was very good.

3-No article:

1. Do not use an article with countries, states, counties or provinces, lakes and mountains except when the country is a collection of states such as "The United States".

- He lives in Washington near Mount Rainier.

➤ They live in Northern British Columbia.

➤ They climbed Mount Everest.

2. We do not normally use an article with plurals and uncountable nouns to talk about things in general:

➤ He writes books.

➤ She likes sweets.

➤ Do you like jazz music?

➤ She ate bread with butter in the morning.

Countable and uncountable nouns

Using English articles with countable and uncountable nouns may be confusing.

The can be used with uncountable nouns, or the article can be dropped entirely as mentioned above.

➤ 1. "The two countries reached the peace after a long disastrous war" (some specific peace treaty) or "The two countries reached peace after a long disastrous war" (any peace).

➤ 2. "He drank the water" (some specific water- for example, the water his wife brought him from the kitchen) or "He drank water." (any water)

It is unusual to use a/an for uncountable nouns. You can't say "I'd like a milk" a/an can be used only with countable nouns.

- I'd like a piece of cake.
- 2. I lent him a book.
- 3. I drank a cup of tea.
